

118th Congress National Service Congressional Caucus

Background: The National Service Congressional Caucus has announced its leaders for the 118th Congress. We are pleased to report that the Caucus leadership is expanding this year and it will be more bipartisan. Click here to read the press release from the National Service Congressional Caucus.

Senator Chris Coons (D-DE) and Senator Bill Cassidy (R-LA) will continue to chair the National Service Caucus in the Senate, but they are adding two new Vice Chairs, Senator Shelley Moore Capito (R-WV) and Senator Martin Heinrich (D-NM).

Over in the House, Representative Garret Graves (R-LA) has agreed to lead the National Service Caucus with Representative Doris Matsui (D-CA), filling the vacancy after the retirement of founding co-chair, Rep. David Price.

Voices for National Service is excited about this expanded leadership team. Each of these members has their own personal connection to service and they agree that AmeriCorps is a commonsense solution that should be expanded and strengthened.

There will be instructions coming for how to encourage more lawmakers to join the Caucus. But for starters, you can use our Contact Congress tool to send an email message to the members of your congressional delegation and encourage them to join the Caucus and support AmeriCorps funding and policy this year.

To thank our National Service Congressional Caucus Co-Chairs and Vice Chairs, Voices for National Service has drafted some social content and graphics that we invite you to share from your social media accounts.
